The Descendants of Francisco Delgado Manso in Puerto Rico

August 11, 2015 4 By ANNA BAYALA

Although I know that Francisco Delgado Manso's father was the son of Francisco Delgado and Juana Manso, I purposely let them off the tree since based on PARES records, Francisco Delgado (the grandfather) was the Delgado line to Puerto Rico in the 1500's.

If you visit PARES, you will come across documentation where he requests from the crown the permission to live on the island with his wife, children, and their household. I'm sure that living on this island wasn't easy where all you had to do was survive.

sea, humidity, heat, and violent weather.

All I can speculate is that either something tragic happened to him or his request was denied. I say this since he remained on the island or I would not be here sharing information about him and his family. Since many of the people have gone in Puerto Rico for this era thanks to Sir Francis Drake and others, your best option is to search on the island.

I could not locate documentation on who was Francisco Delgado Manso's mother which is why she isn't his mother. If you come across the record then please share so that we can all know who this mysterious woman was. I provide 5 generations of this family. I also provided where the records can be found. All the church records are on familysearch; either online or via microfilm at a local FHL. Enjoy the document. You can scroll through it.

NOTE: On the last page I shared something that I have on my tree that I didn't realize would be incorrect. I'm still trying to verify Casimira Flores Fontanes' connection to the Carmona line. She did have a Carmona where she had 2 daughters and not 3 daughters as many suspected over the years. The daughter I found that she identified her father on her wedding record; making her the daughter of the "second spouse". However her daughter Gregoria took on the name of Carmona. I'm hoping to eventually come across the document that identifies who her father is and connecting the Carmona line. The reason I gave him the name Pedro is because she names one of her son's Pedro which was new to the Bayala line as well as her mother's line. I suspect that that is the name or simply he was named Carmona grandfather/great grandfather. Please do not add this name to your tree until it is confirmed. You can simply name him: Male Carmona.

This is a great addition to anyone's research.

These pages you've added, look very much so, like the Book transcribed and additionally researched and ame Enrique Delgado Plasencia.

He is my husband's paternal side Cousin.

It is customary to Acredit the Author, when utilizing their work, 1-1.

Hi. I discovered this article yesterday and have been putting in some of the information for my husband's si. Since this was published quite awhile ago, has anyone pointed out that the details don't make sense for pers Fontanes de Rivera's children with Juan Merced. She was born 23 Jan 1761. Her son Raphael de la Merced 18 Oct 1765 and son Vicente was born 16 Mar 1769. She would have been only 4 and 8 years old, respectively married until 1774, at the age of 13! It appears that there are some errors. Has an update been published?
